guarantee of peace and prosperity for the entire region" (Mirziyoyev, 2024). The collaboration has expanded beyond energy to include the construction of the China-Kyrgyzstan-Uzbekistan railway and industrial parks like the "Piskent" special economic zone. This synergy aligns perfectly with Uzbekistan's "New Uzbekistan" development strategy and China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), creating a "dual-engine" growth model that is resilient to global geopolitical fragmentation.

Abstract: This article analyzes the issues of youth spiritual development through cooperation with international organizations as a priority direction of New Uzbekistan's foreign policy. The study examines youth-related initiatives put forward within the framework of the United Nations (UN), UNESCO, and other international structures, including the draft international convention "On the Rights of Youth," the "Central Asia Youth Agenda – 2030" program, and resolutions on education and tolerance. Based on the speeches of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev at the UN General Assembly, the article reveals mechanisms for protecting youth from extremism and ideological threats in the context of globalization, as well as raising their spiritual and moral education to the level of international standards. The article concludes with practical recommendations for further strengthening international cooperation in developing youth spirituality.

1. Introduction

Relevance of the topic. In the era of 21st-century globalization, the formation of the spiritual and moral character of youth has become a crucial factor in national security and sustainable development for every state. The expansion of the information space and the increasing influence of the virtual world on real life have created new opportunities and risks for the penetration of various ideas into the consciousness of the younger generation. From this perspective, issues of youth spiritual development have become an integral part not only of domestic policy but also of foreign policy activities. Since gaining independence, the Republic of Uzbekistan's youth policy has undergone fundamental renewal, particularly in recent years within the framework of the "New Uzbekistan" concept. At the initiative of the country's leadership, issues of protecting the rights and interests of youth and ensuring their spiritual and moral education have become an important direction of cooperation with international organizations. The ideas and initiatives put forward by President Shavkat Mirziyoyev from the podium of the UN General Assembly are a clear expression of this strategic approach.

Research problem. In the context of globalization, protecting youth from the negative influence of ideological threats, extremism, and terrorism, while simultaneously equipping them with modern knowledge and skills, is a pressing scientific and practical problem. Issues of effectively utilizing the potential of international organizations in this area have not been sufficiently studied.

Research objective. To analyze the conceptual foundations, practical mechanisms, and prospects for developing youth spirituality through cooperation with international organizations in the foreign policy of New Uzbekistan.

Scientific novelty. This article presents, for the first time, a systematic analysis of Uzbekistan's youth-related initiatives within the framework of international organizations, assessed from the perspective of their impact on spiritual education.

2. Research Methodology

This research employs systematic and comparative analysis, content analysis, and historical-logical methods. The primary sources analyzed include speeches of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev at the UN General Assembly (2017-2025), international resolutions adopted on Uzbekistan's initiative, as well as articles from scientific journals recommended by the Higher Attestation Commission (OAK).

3. Conceptual Foundations of Youth Issues in New Uzbekistan's Foreign Policy

One of the main principles of New Uzbekistan's foreign policy is prioritizing human dignity, particularly the interests of the younger generation, in the system of international relations. Since 2017, Uzbekistan has become one of the leading states in this direction through its initiatives put forward at the UN General Assembly.

Convention on the Rights of Youth. At the 72nd session of the UN General Assembly in 2017, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev proposed the development of a single international document protecting the interests of youth – a UN convention "On the Rights of Youth." This proposal was supported by more than 50 countries worldwide and was subsequently seriously discussed at the Samarkand Forum on Human Rights (2020).

Resolution on Enlightenment and Tolerance. In 2018, at Uzbekistan's initiative, the UN General Assembly adopted the resolution "Education and Religious Tolerance." This document aimed to ensure the right to quality education for all youth worldwide, develop religious tolerance, and prevent extremism. The adoption of the resolution demonstrated Uzbekistan's international leadership in protecting youth spirituality.

Central Asia Youth Agenda – 2030. At the 78th session of the UN General Assembly in 2023, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev proposed developing the "CA Youth Agenda 2030" (Central Asia Youth Agenda – 2030) program and establishing a working group on Central Asian youth development under the UN. This initiative aims to address education and employment issues for youth, who constitute nearly half of the region's population.

4. Practical Mechanisms of Cooperation with International Organizations

4.1. Cooperation within the UN System

Uzbekistan's cooperation with the UN is consistent and systematic in character regarding youth issues. Resolutions and programs adopted on the country's initiative directly impact the spiritual education of youth.

Protecting youth from extremism. At Uzbekistan's proposal, mechanisms for protecting youth from radicalization and extremism are being developed within the UN framework. Projects implemented in cooperation with Germany's DVV International are aimed at increasing the social and spiritual resilience of youth.

Development of education and science. Within the framework of the "Hour of the Future" project on the theme "Uzbekistan and the World," educational lessons are being organized at universities in Uzbekistan. Through these projects, students gain in-depth knowledge about Uzbekistan's achievements in the international arena, the open and peaceful foreign policy being pursued, and initiatives put forward within international organizations.

4.2. Cooperation with UNESCO

Uzbekistan's cooperation with UNESCO focuses on preserving spiritual heritage and harmonizing national and universal values in the consciousness of youth. In 2023, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev proposed, with UNESCO's assistance, the establishment of an "International Center for Interfaith Dialogue and Tolerance" in Uzbekistan. This center will play a crucial role in promoting religious tolerance among youth.

4.3. Cooperation with International Non-Governmental Organizations

Non-governmental structures such as the "Compatriots" Foundation are actively involved in uniting Uzbek diasporas and promoting the native language, culture, and traditions among youth abroad. The "Sogdiana NEXT" startup fund is an international scientific project uniting scientists and young researchers from Uzbekistan, Israel, and the United States.

5. Results and Discussion

The analysis yielded the following conclusions:

First, Uzbekistan's cooperation with international organizations is systematic and strategic in nature regarding youth spiritual development. Each speech by President Shavkat Mirziyoyev at the UN General Assembly is enriched with new initiatives that transform into practical resolutions and programs.

Second, the fundamental condition for the effectiveness of international cooperation is the harmony of domestic and foreign policy. The youth policy reforms being implemented in Uzbekistan are logically connected with initiatives at international organizations. Third, enlightenment ideas occupy a central place in developing youth spirituality. The policy of the Uzbekistan leadership based on the principle of "enlightenment against ignorance" is being recognized internationally.

Fourth, existing problems include insufficiently developed mechanisms for implementing resolutions adopted within international organizations, as well as the passive position of some foreign states towards Uzbekistan's initiatives.

6. Conclusion and Recommendations

The foreign policy of New Uzbekistan has identified cooperation with international organizations as a strategic priority in developing youth spirituality. Documents adopted on Uzbekistan's initiative within the UN framework, including the draft convention "On the Rights of Youth," the resolution "Education and Religious Tolerance," and the "CA Youth Agenda 2030" program, serve to ensure the spiritual and moral education of the younger generation.

The following recommendations are proposed for the future:

1. Strengthening coordination of youth issues at the international level by establishing a permanent representative office for youth affairs under the UN;
2. Creating sustainable mechanisms for financing international projects related to youth spiritual development;
3. Developing a "Spiritual Security Index" and submitting it for discussion within international organizations;
4. Making extensive use of modern digital platforms to promote Uzbekistan's youth initiatives.

New Uzbekistan's youth policy in cooperation with international organizations should be assessed not only as ensuring national security but also as a significant contribution to global peace and sustainable development.
